

Are You Ready for the Apocalypse? by Toni Petrinovich

The ancient Mayan civilization that reached its height around 900AD put great emphasis on astronomy. They were well-versed mathematicians using astronomical calculations to create a pretty accurate calendar for their civilization.

Within their calendar dating, they targeted an alignment within the precession of the equinoxes. On that date, the solstice sun aligns with the galactic equator. The cross formed by the Milky Way and the ecliptic occur within the Dark Rift of the Milky Way. The Mayans theorized the Rift as the womb of their Divine Feminine Principle, the cosmic mother deity. Mayan civilization believed that galactic alignments within cycles were involved in human beings having a potential awakening experience – waking up.

Modern day scholars are surmising that the date the Mayans refer to will be December 21, 2012. This is based upon current thinking regarding the Mayan Long Count calendar and how to interpret it. Despite the present calculations being correct or incorrect, one theory has no basis – that of the world's end.

The word “apocalypse” means the lifting of the veil or the revealing of that which is hidden. The last book of the Bible's New Testament entitled The Book of Revelation has extended the meaning of apocalypse to connote the end of the world with the “unveiling” being the revealing of the Messiah or the re-entry of Jesus Christ into the physical world.

Within the Mayan's stories, they tell of the individual's ego drive to wield power no matter how deceiving the appearance. Eventually, in their cosmology, the ego's soul is reborn after being realigned within the Heart of Divinity. The Mayan concept does not include judgment (as outlined in the Christian Bible) nor does it prophecy the undoing of humanity, rather the opening of the human awareness to its sacredness.

The Mayan cosmology has the ability to offer a new glimpse into the true mystery of life – “as above, so below”. This opens the door to union of heart, mind and body and a restoration of the bigger picture within human consciousness. It is what humanity is yearning for in its deepest core – even the power brokers who only pay attention to how much they can control, how much power they can achieve and how much wealth they can amass. Their striving is their yearning for the restoration of their heart, mind and body in conscious awareness of their Source emanation. They simply do not yet know it. In the simplicity of an open heart, humanity has an opportunity now to become individually strong, clear and centered individually and then collectively.

The planet is vibrating at an increasing frequency right now. It is moving through the astral plane where the thoughts and emotions of humanity exist. The envelope that holds these thoughts and emotions is called the noosphere. It is an etheric container of the mental and emotional bodies of humanity surrounding and infiltrating the earth.

This envelope holds the fear many people are feeling, the very emotional extremes of human experience. Many people are easily upset as they experience the changes and transformation, individually and collectively. On a larger scale, it is mass consensus.

At the same time, because the frequency of the planet is increasing, every human being's vibration is raising, as well. This is a transition into this light as you begin to realize you are less dense than you believed yourself to be. The lucidity you experience within this model of being light is one of pure expression and, simultaneously, you begin to see yourself as an energy body rather than a solid physical body.

Within this particular dimension, the sun emits the light that stimulates the growth process of this world. It creates a semblance of order for that which is in this dimension and, at the same time, consumes itself as it is sending forth the energy that will be the ultimate growth and expansion process of the earth and all nature.

The understanding that you are light places you in direct communication with the sun. The photons within your body absorb the energy from the sun and can be worked with through the intention of your conscious mind. This is referred to as spiritual sight or the ability to see with the eyes of the spirit.

Yet that gives a sense of separation to everything that exists because there is nothing that is outside spirit. Everything you see - from the person sitting in prayer in a church to the garbage can that you need to empty - is imbued with the essence of spirit. When you see your life from this standpoint, you can say that you are seeing with spiritual eyes. You are embracing yourself and your world with the eyes of the Christos (anointed).

As the apocalypse continues to unfold, realize you are resonating with the removal of the veil of illusion from within your reality. As the creator of your experience within this frequency dimension, you contribute to the noosphere through each feeling, thought, emotion, word and action. Only you know how you will experience the inner depth of your spiritual sight. As you share it with the world, the tipping point of vision becomes the norm for the hu/man – the source in physical form. Then the veil is no more and the invisible has become visible . . . through you.
