The Angelic Human

Since the beginning of recorded history, humans have cited the presence of angels in etchings, drawings, paintings, and written material. Through myths and fables, holy books and whispered prayers, humans beseech, pray to, acknowledge, and invite the presence of angels. Mothers and Fathers tuck their children into bed at night asking for the presence of their children's guardian angels to protect them. We ask the heavens to protect us and to guide us. We search for the spirit in ourselves and in each other. The search for the divine—the sacred—reaches evergrowing proportions now as humanity seeks an end to violence, repression, injustice, and hatred. Our hearts call out for a way to connect, a way to remember, and a way to make our journey easier, more fruitful, and more authentic.

As we evolve, open, and expand our present technology to include the heart, the soul, and the awareness of “consciousness”, questions arise about the nature of reality. Humans have always asked these questions. Searching for ways to unify all peoples, to reach into the deepest parts of ourselves for answers, to fulfill potential, to access wholeness, and to express creatively and fearlessly, we wonder what is real, what and who we can trust. We spend time wondering who we really are and how to live in love and harmony. As our inner and outer world disintegrates, we reach even further into the realms of the invisible, wondering if it is possible to connect with our purpose, our path, and our truth. We reach from an inner yearning that moves us to uncover and discover our origin, our connection, and our oneness with spirit and each other.

In The Call—Awakening the Angelic Human, Toni Sar'h Petrinovich writes about this search for wholeness, within and without, and clarifies many of our age-old questions. Do angels exist? Are there angelic humans? Is the search for the angelic a call from our souls to fulfill an interconnectedness that knows no physical bounds, but opens us to the discovery that this angelic “spirit” is already within us—That there are angels in human form? She helps us understand the angelic realm, its purpose and focus and our possible agreement with it.

Toni Sar'h links the angelic realm, the principles that activate DNA in humanity, the connection between DNA and evolution, and describes for us the Angelic Human (AH). She shows us how AH have an attraction to the One Will, and how this intensified attraction manifests encoded differences within the Angelic Human's soul pattern. This magnetism further integrates the individuated free will into the One Will bringing the Angelic Humans into a mode of surrender and vulnerability. Within that vulnerability lives the potential for the greatest power—the openness which is the gap between breaths which brings the Angelic Human to the depths of the Heart, the Pulse of the Sophia—the Mother Creator.

Toni Sar'h reveals why this is the time of unfolding consciousness, how we can manifest this consciousness most easily, and what purpose Angelic Humans serve in the overall design of humanity's evolution. Not only is this a book of selfdiscovery, it is a primer for the activating soul who remembers a calling to this time and space to provide a portal through their ever-awakening consciousness for light, truth, and divinity to flow.

As the awakening to whom and what you are within this critical time becomes more and more clear to you, you acknowledge that you are different—you acknowledge that you may be an Angelic Human. As you acknowledge this difference, this acknowledgment empowers you. Toni Sar'h then instructs you in carrying the energy of the Angelic Human with compassion and grace, as you shift from belief to knowledge and your consciousness spiritualizes the material dimension through your expanded thought patterns. Toni Sar'h shows us that there is only one force, only one energy—a unified field. She reminds us that there is no “other” and that the mass consciousness of mankind aids in creating the illusion that there is a reality that is separate from you. It is really by mass agreement that this is so and it can be changed at any time. The Angelic Humans are about changing that mass agreement.

Toni Sar'h sees a collective rise in energy as we begin to actualize our angelic potential, promoting expanded knowledge in all spheres, creating a matrix within which solutions naturally appear as people follow their intuition. She feels that the wealth of talents, wisdom and creativity present upon the earth now is more than ample to hold the frequency of divine perfection during this intense time/space fracturing.

As we read The Call, potential begins to actualize within us. Subtle yearnings are felt and understood. The capacity of the human being to engender divine essence seems easier. We are inspired and held in the web of interconnectedness. Divinity is palpable. There is a plan for bringing the design of union into being. As Toni Sar'h describes—a large part of that plan is the Angelic Human. The force of the One Will and the openness to bridge the gap between humans is the place within us that has not forgotten our oneness. It is the yearning for the Heart of the One—the place of no separation.

In The Call, Toni Sar'h brings forth guidance to teach us how to rest in the knowing that we are perfectly in alignment with an unfolding whose time has come. It is our destiny to assist in the great design of union and truth here. As we understand how unconditional love and compassion are awakened within us vibrationally, we begin the acknowledgement that we are Angelic. We open to the wisdom and knowledge of the spheres, and we are held in the texture of the divine. As we open to this knowing, the 'being' begins . . . again.
