

Whole Light Beings on Radiation Energy

Our Chancellor has been requested to approach us and ask us to address the notion of radiation spreading out into your world. So listen well because this affects your life . . . all aspects of it. But you already realize that don't you? A door is opening if you have the courage to walk through it.

Or would you prefer to keep life as it is . . . holding on to the illusion that you can continue to ignore the most verdant areas of your life . . . holding nature hostage as you dampen your consciousness into submission. Tomorrow has not yet arrived; now is your time.

This is precisely why we have been interlacing ourselves into your daily lives – you and us; we are you; you are us. To your mind it is a mystery and yet nothing is grander than the remediation of that which you are observing all around you as you watch our images and listen to our words. You are standing at the precipice of a new civilization. We stand with you. If you are not willing to adapt to that which you observe and experience, it will simply take you along with it as a tsunami storm of force and effect. No step you take from this moment on will you know. You are not moving into the unknown. You are moving into the unknowable – and therefore, it is a mystery because you believe that what you think you manifest. NO! What you feel is what you resonate with and you may now observe your resonance by looking at your world. What do you see?

You have one attribute that you may access and call yours – it is your yearning to let go of the shattered world you are immersed within and embrace your longing to know your Emanation from the Eminence. The earthquakes, the volcanoes, the long cold winter, the radiation – they are all signs, symbols and literal signposts for this journey. When you are driving your car and you see a Stop sign, it does not force you to stop. When you see a red, yellow and green traffic light, it does not make you obey it. Both are signs, symbols of what action you are to take next. So, too, the cataclysms you witness in your world. They are signs. They say, "Stop. Change what you are resonating with in this world. Change your frequency and you will resonate with only that which is clear and sweet." Oh, how your ego does not want to hear those words. Your mind reels at the idea of letting go of the power you believe you. You have no power; not in the way you believe you have power. It is overtaking you, is it not?

The world as you knew it will be no more. Leave it behind. Loose your attachment to that which cannot be contained. You are evading your longing for veracity and candor. It is your yearning that has the ability to draw you into your awareness. Why do you play with these visions of useless illusion? Why do you call them real? Yet, your longing, too, is predicated upon that which you do not want rather than in which you ARE. Where is your intent? What is your intention? Do you know your Emanation?

This is as good a time as any to realize that the journey you have begun is far past the point of no return. That which is your Essence which is your embodiment in the flesh is changing by the design you created within your point of origin. It is simply that you have forgotten why you came. Now you may forget no more. It is staring you in the face.

Begin now to stabilize yourself in your newly found awareness. Where you have been unconscious, open your mind. Where you have held tight, let go. Where you have judged; judge no more. It is not a time for pity or remorse. It is a time for strength, forthright honesty and mask-less countenance. The very bones of your body cry out to you to stop the pretence. Are you awake in each moment? Are you aware in each breath? Or are you walking this earth like the walking dead? Not even knowing that you are alive? You are immortal; do you know this?

You are horrified at the idea that your world might end. Know that the world as you knew it is already gone. Your true identity as an Emanation of the Eminence knows this and cares not. It is your firm, clutching grasp on the deluded wealth of this world to which you hold firm. Within, your Essence waits, breathless . . . willing you to let go.

Keep your eyes on the signposts that are all around you. They tell you what you resonate with . . . that which surrounds you. These signs will not lie to you and they do not care if you see them. They simply are. All of the knowledge you believe you know is for naught. It has brought you only to this place; that is its only value. Yet the knowledge will not hold you here.

There is only one container, one Holy Grail, capable of sheltering you in this storm. It is your frequency, the frequency of the One Heart beating as the Emanations of the Eminence; embrace that One Heart. To this you may cling, this Heart that is already yours. If you wish to know radiation, know the One Heart as it radiates as you. Embody this and let go of all else.